Hi Wilbur,

I’m worried that the way you handle this may undermine your cause. We have acknowledged your first escalation and committed to providing you with interim feedback within a reasonable time. You must appreciate that the merits of your assertions must also be tested and not taken as a true reflection of what transpired, and that takes time.

You cannot put the Directors and Executives on a clock and impose a 48-hour turnaround time on them. That’s unreasonable considering all the other critical things we are dealing with in our business right now.

Please, I plead with you to allow us time to attend to your matter diligently.

Regards,

Monwabisi Kula
